Tarzan-A Little Dog With Many Friends-Auto Victim

A familiar figure on the Frankfort scene no longer makes his appointed rounds.

The small black and tan terrier Tarzan -- toy Manchester -- that divided his time among his friends and acquaintances in the village and the patrons of his owners business, was struck by a car last week and this time it was fatal.

Harold Cheney saw the little fellow lying on Nebraska street and picking him up came to the tavern operated by Mr. and Mrs. Norton Blaylock a block away on Kansas street. The Blaylocks took Tarzan to the veterinary, Dr. T. J. Gunhouse, but efforts to revive him were futile.

Several years ago Tarzan was struck by a car. That time 14 stitches and medication enabled him to recover but last week the auto passed over him. The driver did not stop. It may be he was unaware of what happened.

Nine years ago Tarzan was stolen but was recovered. Except for those experiences he led a regular life. Eight o'clock in the morning saw him on his way to gossip with dog friends and visit with various people.

He was not a moocher but there were a couple of persons who always offered him a tidbit and being polite Tarzan accepted them. Around 11:30 he went out again -- to a different section and this trip usually included a bite or two of lunch. He made still another round, starting at 5:30 and when one saw him return and enter the tavern he didn't need to look at his watch. If acquainted with Tarzan he knew it was 6:30.

Tarzan was 13 years old and weighed about a pound and a half. If caught out in a heavy rain. He was one of those fortunate creatures that didn't have to count calories. He could take a little extra in the refreshment line and not put on an ounce.

"He knew more people than I do," Norton Blaylock said.

Tarzan didn't take up much room at the tavern but his not being there has left a large emptiness.

Let Contract For East Front Street Resurfacing

Trygg Paving Co. 127 E. Van-Buren, Joliet was awarded the Front st. resurfacing contract by the Mokena Village board at its regular meeting last Tuesday, July 19.

The contract, which is subject to approval by the Illinois Highway Commission, calls for a bituminous surface, gravel or crushed stone base and curbs and gutters. The area to be resurfaced is on Front St. between Wolf Road and Mokena St.

The Trygg firm submitted figures of $20,998.60, the lowest of the three sealed bids received by the board. The Material Paving, 128 Scott St. Joliet was second with $22,670.40. Crown Rock Asphalt Co., Troy Twp., Joliet was the high bidder with a figure of $24,240.24.

The board also announced that all weeds in the Village must be destroyed before August 1 or the village will have them cut and bill the property owner for the cost.

Boy Scouts Hail Camporee At Mokena As Big Success

While attendance was down, due to summer vacations and camping programs, the Boy Scout jubilee camporee of the Blackhawk district was hailed as a big success. The camporee was held last week-end at Mokena in Community park.

There were some anxious minutes last Friday night when the scouts under canvas in the park wondered whether their tents would withstand the fury of the flash storm that swept the area.

While the rainfall was heavy the ground was so dry that it soaked up the water rapidly and there was no mud problem. Those in charge of the camporee, however, were somewhat apprehensive when the storm broke, fearing it might be a repetition of the deluge and wind that caused a shutdown of the camporee held in the same park a couple of years ago. The boys had planned a campfire for Friday night but the weas-ther halted that part of the program. The campfire stunts Saturday night were wildly applauded. There was a magician; Father Link of Troop 5 led a song with a unique demonstration with a turtle; Troop 40 (Mokena) had an act that was a show-stopper-a pantomime of the Yellow Polka-dot Bikini record (with costumes).

Various scouting activities kept the boys busy thru Saturday. There were 109 Scouts present, representing nine troops. Troop 26 placed first in the competitions. Troop 55 was second and Troop 18 was third. Twenty-two adults took part in the camporee.

Boys attending from Mokena were: Wayne Swanberg, Dave Deinski, George Gorman, Joe Todd, Paul Duagulla, Larry Weathers, Jim Surovick, Greg Spies, Kenneth Cornells, Kevin Hoolehan, Arthur Omland, scoutmaster, was in charge.

Mokena's Appropriation For 1960-61 Is $69,073

The village of Mokena has budgeted a total of $69,073.75 for current year expenditures, according to the 1960-61 appropriation ordinance adopted by the board.

Of this amount $18,803.75 will be raised thru various taxes, including interest and principal on general obligation bonds sold to provide part payment for the sanitary sewer water system.

The remainder of the amount, $50,270 will come from sources other than taxation. This includes, of course, the principal and interest due on the water and sewer revenue bonds -- $5,000 principal and $11,850 interest. Money for this purpose and for the operation and maintenance of the water and sewer system stems from the charges for water and sewer service.

Village Attorney Ray Hoolehan, who prepared the ordinance, pointed out that the fact money is appropriated does not mean it will be spent. The items are set up in an appropriation ordinance simply means that the money can be spent -- if available. Unless an appropriation is made the village board does not have authority to make expenditure.

Every appropriation ordinance thus carries items for which money will not be spent because it will not be available, but they are listed just in case, it was explained.

Five thousand dollars is allotted out of taxes to pay off principal in that amount on general obligation bonds. The interest on these bonds payable this year is $3,918.75, which is also derived from taxes.

Seven thousand dollars is allocated to the police department, $3,000 of which is to come from taxes. An item of $350 for the care of impounded dogs is also listed.

The sum of $3,000 is earmarked for labor on the repair of streets and $2,000 for material; weed cutting is figured at $150. Snow removal is put at $200; repair of sidewalks, $500; engineer fees, $500; civil defense, $350; maintenance and repair of village hall, $1,000; plan commission, $1,675; salaries of mayor and trustees, $1,095.

The ordinance in all details appears on another page in this issue.

Awaits News Of Parents In The Congo

BY ANN RODGER

Anxiety over the fate of her parents, missionaries in the strife-ridden newly independent Congo Republic, was relieved somewhat for 19-year old Nancy Brooks, when she received a letter on July 11, that they were at a mission station awaiting rescue and return to the United States.

Nancy, who lived with her parents in the Congo for nine years, returned home May 21, and is presently staying with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnard Johnson, 17202 Central ave., Tinley Park.

The last word she received was from the mission board in Pittsburgh that her parents were on their way to Usunbuera in Ruand-Urundi. The fate of her parents, says Nancy, is in God's hands.

Orland Youth Wins Place On U.S. Olympic Track Squad

Ronald Zinn, 21, of Orland Park, has won a place on the walking team that makes up a part of the track squad to represent the United States in the Olympic games at Rome (Italy) next month.

Zinn, who has just completed his second year as a cadet at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, will compete in the 20-kilometer walking event.

He is the walking team at the Point and has been among the winners at every competition in which he has participated.

The trials for the Olympic berth were held at Baltimore last week. The qualifying time limit established by Olympic officials for the 20-kilometer event was one hour and 45 minutes. Ron made the distance on one hour, 31 minutes and 12 seconds. Two others also qualified for the U. S. team.

Ronald is now at the University of Oregon, (Eugene, Ore.) where the U. S. track squad will train Aug. 13, when they will be flown to Rome. Track and field events are to be completed so the teams will return home on Sept. 13.

The 20-kilometer event in which Ronald is entered is scheduled for Sept. 3.

In the meantime he will be putting in a lot of time walking.

This heel-and-toe walking done by Zinn is a far cry from strolling and even a commuter with a late start for his train would probably have to run to keep up with a heel-and-toe-er. When it was announced some weeks ago that young Zinn would compete for a place on the Olympic team followers of the sport made note that he does his heel-and-toeing without the wriggles usually characteristic of such athletes. Some attribute his wiggle-less performance to his training as a cadet.

Incidentally Ron worked for weeks under a self-training program. He is a relatively newcomer to the heel-and-toe sport. Four months after he started he won the mile event at Madison Square Garden. Three weeks later he won the Open 10-mile.

He was up against veteran walkers in the Olympic trials but came thru them handily.

Ronald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zinn, Orland Park, and was graduated from Carl Sandburg high school in 1957.

In high school he won letters in football, wrestling and track and in the year he attended Cornell college in Iowa before entering the military academy he won letters in football, wrestling, track and cross country.

Frankfort Fire Department Sells Dance Tickets

A house to house canvass is now underway by members of the Frankfort fire department to promote ticket sales for their annual fish fry and dance that is to be held on the Valley View Farm picnic grounds, U. S. 30, near Wolf road. The affair is scheduled for Aug. 5, a week from tomorrow.

Entrance to the picnic grounds is at Kiddyland.

The fish fry is slated to begin at 5 o'clock. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 and a popular band of the area has been engaged to furnish the music.

A fire protection district has been established at Frankfort but there will be no money available from taxes until next year, it was explained. Because of this it is necessary to seek public aid in raising funds, according to a department spokesman.

Distributes Sales Tax to Communities

City and county sales tax collections made in May on April liability have been reported by the Illinois department of revenue. City sales tax collections grossed $4,824,333 and county sales tax collections totaled $269,810.

State Urges Passage Of Bonds For Welfare Needs

Gov. William G. Stratton released a listing of urgent construction and rehabilitation projects at state welfare institutions, contingent upon passage of the $150,000,000 state welfare building bond issue, Tuesday, November 8.

The list was submitted to Governor Stratton by Dr. Otto L. Bettag, state welfare director. It provides for urgently needed capital improvements at 22 of the 26 institutions operated by the Illinois Department of Public Welfare.

"Every voter has a duty to declare his wishes in connection with this bond issue," the governor emphasized. "Because of the constitutional requirements, failure to vote actually becomes a vote against the issue."

Construction is already well advanced on the 585-crib bed Pediatric Institute for mentally retarded children through the age of six, which adjoins the recently opened Illinois State Psychiatric Institute in the state's famed medical center in Chicago. This is the first institution exclusively designed to serve the mentally retarded to be built in Illinois in 82 years. It combines the most modern facilities for the care, treatment and training of mentally retarded children, training and education of personnel, and research into mental retardation.

The list with estimates based on January 1, 1960 construction costs includes for the Northern Illinois hospitals, Tinley Park $18,389,499; Manteno, $10,843,306; Kankakee, $6,401,641; Elgin, $10,566,933 and Dixon $10,367,730.

Energy Liquids Extracted from Natural Gas

As it comes from a well, natural gas contains varying amounts of liquid hydrocarbons: natural gasoline, kerosene, propane and butane. These are extracted in a continuous cycling operation in which the gas, from which the liquids have been removed is compressed and circulated back into the producing formations to push a fresh supply of "wet gas" to the producing well. The operation is continued until the supply of liquids in the producing formations has been exhausted.

La Gloria Oil and Gas Company—a wholly-owned subsidiary of Texas Eastern—operates one of the world's largest natural gas processing plants in the center of an extensive oil and gas field in South Texas. A second plant is under construction in another major field.

The operation of these plants to remove liquid hydrocarbons from natural gas is still another example of the importance of Texas Eastern's role as Pipeliner of Energy to the Nation.

Floating Bases Should Help

Successful firing of Polaris missiles from a submerged submarine last week provides the United States with new defense bases. It is a good thing too because so many of our so-called friends who in past have permitted us to establish bases -- for a consideration of course -- within their possessions are now turning us out.

In an article in the recent issue of "U. S. News & World Report" it is stated that "All around the world, the military bases upon which the U. S. and its allies depend for defense against Soviet Russia and Red China are in danger."

Some of the danger stems from Communist stratagems but that is only a part of the picture. There are strong forces within allied governments that are opposed to having out military installations within their territories, and which are pressing hard and sometimes successfully, for U. S. withdrawal.

Despite recent ratification of a defense treaty with Japan there is still considerable pressure there by Communists against bases there and in Okinawa which are very important to protection of our Far Eastern flank and a veto by the Japanese government could be serious.

We had some highly important bases in Morocco but the pressure became so strong there that we have agreed to evacuate them. The Icelandic government's protest against out ground troops there resulted in their withdrawal.

Our nuclear bombers have been withdrawn from France, and some bases are closed in that country. That was because of the demand of the French government that have the right to veto the use of our nuclear weapons.

Some of the Latin American countries are becoming critical of our bases and one can expect to hear most any day that Castro has kicked out our naval base in Cuba.

Even in England our bases are becoming more and more a center of controversy. According to U. S. News "one argument being that they needlessly bring Britain into the firing line and subject her to tremendous dangers."

As yet the situation there has not reached the point where there is an immediate question of U. S. withdrawal but the criticisms are widely quoted in and out of the British press.

Difficulties of one kind or another are reported in varying degrees of intensity in Libya, Turkey, Norway, Korea, Pakistan and the Philippines.

The magazine says: Trouble thus seems to be cropping up all around for this country's world-wide network of military bases -- at a time when Russia's missile threat is growing fast and America's defenses still are geared in large measure to retaliation from bases abroad."

Successful trials of Polaris firings from a submerged submarine thus becomes most important. The missiles launched in this fashion were delivered on a target 1,100 miles away. Thus with floating bases, so to speak, we are in a better retaliatory position and the fact should serve as a further deterrent should Russia itch to flex its missile muscles.

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Your correspondent has just finished reading a newspaper ad to the effect that choice beef could be had for nine cents a pound and the butcher would make free deliveries in city or country.

Don't reach for your phone. This butcher, one Henry Willa, of Palatine, never had one. You see this ad ran some time ago, 93 years ago in fact, and meat prices have gone up a little since then.

This ad, it should be explained, appeared in the Palatine Herald in the issue of March 21, 1873, a copy of a reprint of which landed in this department last week.

There were no automobiles then so there were no advertisements of gasoline with magical numbers to give more power, more pick-up, more mileage; nor were there tires at bargain prices nor as many traffic fatalities.

There were ads, however, offering horses, harnesses, saddles and buggies for sale, as well as sleigh bells and buffalo robes.

Kerosene was in demand and good prices could be had on lamps and lanterns.

Few of the merchants, however, advertised prices but most of them reminded the public they were doing a cash business.

No easy terms and easy credit. One storekeeper put his policy into verse:

"Since man to man is so unjust,
I hardly know what man to trust;
My friend did come -- I did trust him --

I lost my friend and lost his custom.

To lose my friend it grieved me sore,

So I've resolved to trust no more."

Trees and shrubs were being sold; a barber advertised a side-line -- gentlemen's ties and paper collars; the Union Pacific had 12 million acres for sale in the west; Mrs. Winslow's soothing Syrup was available for teething infants; agents were wanted to peddle various gadgets, just like now; at least two schools offered to teach telegraphy, hailed as a coming and fascinating art.

In the news columns one finds the Republicans were having their troubles thru defection of party members, and papers, to the Democrats. A liberal Republican was defined as "a Democrat that has not the courage to avow his real principles."

Reporters apparently took no stock in libel laws or else their publishers were judgement proof. "The murderer (naming him) of Connors won't go to Joliet for a few days," runs a paragraph among the items from Woodstock, "not until the grand jury indicts him and he has had a trial..." The Woodstock correspondent also notes there were "between 50 and 60 loafers in front of the Excelsior Block on Sunday. The Bashful Boys apparently a Woodstock club, was taken to task for its party on the preceding Monday night..."

The correspondent states baldly that "the poorest party the club ever had," probably owing to the execrable condition of the hall, which was dimly lighted and exceedingly dirty..."

The Travelers Safety Service

In the Palatine column one sees that Charlie, a photographer, "will leave town sure, April 1." And for those who care it is reported there were large flocks of pigeons, ducks and geese flying over Palatine on their way north... floating ice threatened the railroad bridge at DesPlaines and a few friendly libations of beer by litigants and judge were credited with helping to settle a court case in that community... The man who stole a horse from John Coons was captured and the animal recovered... Not so fortunate was Fayette Thomas of Nunda... his best horse "died of Epizootic." In an ad people were warned that "Epizootic colds and Epizootic coughs if not given prompt attention would lead to consumption... as TB was then called when it wasn't referred to more delicately as lung complaint."

In Nunda apparently everyone knew each other and names were unnecessary in reporting the happenings there. Mr. Thomas who lost the horse to Epizootic, Ernest Beardsley who was confined to his bed because of a fever, Ch. Vermilyea who took a trip to Chicago and Maynard Hamilton who became a clerk for R. Robinson are the only ones in the news with surnames. It is possible Maynard was a newcomer for among the other items one learns that Ben has a new clerk with no name at all... Nettie says she just loves the paper... Ole left Ben's and was going in business for himself... There was excitement the preceding Thursday night when a switch light at the west end of the switch exploded... Dundee had excitement too -- two runaways on the street the previous week but no damage... and John S. Buck was fined $3 by Squire Hollister for attempting to strike D. Smith, the mail carrier. No reason was given and the reader is left to wonder whether Smith was late with his deliveries, peeking at the mail or maybe just jested his hair the wrong way... Pupils in School Dist. 115 were betrayed by the editor... he printed their examination grades as well as their standing in class from their average grades... There was snow on the ground... measles and mumps were prevalent, with a sprinkling of typhoid... 24 trains were reported passing thru Palatine daily but how many stopped was not disclosed... The correspondent at Norwood Park was critical of the two or three women seen riding on a windy day... "balloons on horseback" was the description given... Congress was in session but not giving handouts... the state legislators were busy with problems concerning fish, courts, temperance, railroads and stockyards...

A committee investigating the stockyards was being so mysterious a committee was named to investigate the committee.

Not only did the local doctors and dentists advertise but there was one from near St. Louis who modestly claimed to be the most successful physician of the age... but why anyone wanted to bother with doctors when they could have taken their troubles to Mrs. E. E. Lewis is beyond me -- Mrs. Lewis was a sort of one-stop cure-all -- an occultist whose skill enabled her to cure what most physicians pronounced to be incurable she said but didn't stop there... rheumatism might baffle some but not Mrs. Lewis... her stock of medicines were the best in existence, she said... and she had a remedy for practically all ills to which the flesh is heir... the only stipulation Mrs. Lewis raised was on treatment of bronchitis -- she guaranteed to cure this ailment, PROVIDING speech was not gone and the bronchial tubes were still functioning... The patient also to be breathing.

Which was only fair... what did one expect for a dollar... miracles yet?

Lightning Hits Corn Crib And Starts Blaze

A corn crib on the James Hunter farm, about five miles east of Frankfort, was struck by lightning Friday night and approximately 300 bushels of corn destroyed.

The Frankfort fire department responded to the alarm. It extinguished the blaze and prevented it from spreading to other buildings.

The Hunters had visitors Friday night and were talking when there was a terrific clap of thunder, prompting the remark by one of the company -- "that was a close one." How close it was did not become apparent for almost half an hour when someone discovered the corn crib was on fire. The crib is about 100 yards from the house.

Investment Firm Changes Ownership

Maurice P. Angland, who writes the Business and Finance column for this paper, is now a representative of Crutenden, Podesta & Co., which recently purchased the Chicago Heights office of Reynolds and Co., at 58 Illinois st.

Crutenden, Podesta & Co., now have 18 offices across the country but is Chicago based. It is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and other principal exchanges in the nation.

The Chicago Heights office specializes in serving suburban investors, it being much more convenient for clients to call there than go to the Chicago financial district.

Mr. Angland is well known in the area, not only by reason of his weekly column but also thru the classes dealing with investments which he has taught in the adult education program at Lincoln-Way and similar classes which he has conducted at Tinley Park.

There is an increasing number of persons who are following a regular investment program under which they put in so much a month. Numerous newly married couples are also embarked on such programs.

"Regular investment programs are no longer restricted to the wealthy or the well-to-do," Mr. Angland pointed out. "People have found out that buying stocks and securities thru regular investment of certain sums every month is an excellent way of meeting needs of the future."

make purchases direct from the manufacturer. This was made possible by the organization of fast deliveries from factory to retailer and resulted in lower costs to the consumer. The retailer could get a faster turn over of his capital thru not being required to carry substantial stocks on hand.

The grocery supermarket expects to turn its stock several times each month and therefore operate at a smaller gross profit.

Business machine manufacturers have been expending large sums to develop electronic equipment which will enable both retailer and manufacturer to have very close knowledge of inventory and specific inventory items as to rate of turn over and keep in stock those items with best rate of turn over.

This control puts the manufacturer closer to the retail situation where he is able to quickly note changes in sales emphasis.

Charles L. Hardy, president of T. Reyerson & Son, Inc., warehousing division of Inland Steel, stated recently, "the objective in business is neither gross sales nor profits as such. What must be watched are earnings on invested capital. Lower inventories mean less invested capital and higher earnings on the same volume of business."

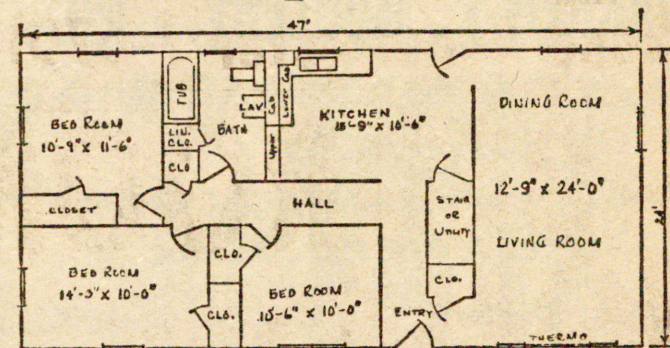

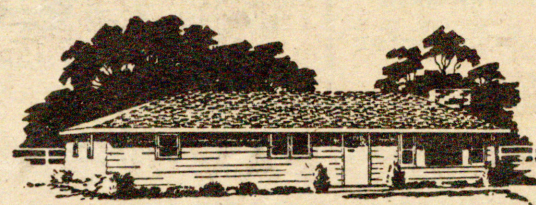

Hardware stores usually are expected to turn their stock about three times a year. If by close inventory control, turn over can be three and a half times, store earnings increase substantially.

Burglars Break Into Lincoln-Way Drive-In Last Week, Get Nothing

Burglars broke into the Lincoln-Wood Drive-In restaurant on U. S. 30 last week but fled empty handed when Gene Hunt, operator of a neighboring oil station arrived at the scene.

Hunt told sheriffs' deputies that he had received a telephone call from someone who declined to identify himself, stating that someone had broken into the gas station. Hunt arrived at the station about 11:30 and his coming caused the restaurant burglars to flee.

Hints For Homeowners

JAMES FIZZELL, ASS'T. FARM ADVISER

During the past several years, there has been wholesale removal of our street and shade trees in Illinois as the result of the elm disease. It is only through such loss that we can fully appreciate not only the value of the trees in providing beauty and shade, but also their ability to freshen the atmosphere, to reduce dust and smoke problems, and to absorb sound and noise. Now that many communities and home owners are faced with the problem of replacing these trees, it is logical to consider what trees to use as replacements in order to avoid plantings that will soon be too large for their location, as well as unsightly and bothersome.

In selecting a tree, whether it be for planting along your street or in your yard, consider the following factors:

1. Be sure your choice is hardy for your area.
2. Avoid trees that have unattractive litter, such as messy fruit or seed pods and persistent twig breakage.

3. Do not select trees with roots that are heavy surface feeders. Such trees will interfere with the growth of lawn and nearby plantings or will cause surrounding pavement to heave. Do not plant rapid-growing trees, such as black locust or Siberian elm (commonly called the Chinese elm). Although these trees will give shade quickly, they are short-lived (10 to 15 year average life span), and they are prone to breakage due to ice, snow, and wind.

4. Choose a tree that has good growth habits. When full grown, it fits into the overhead space that is available.

5. Limit your selections to varieties that are long-lived and resistant to ice and wind damage, as well as to insects and diseases.

Selecting Trees to Fit Your Street

Trees lining a street and providing a delicate canopy of foliage overhead relieve the monotonous lines of houses and give a feeling of character to the street and the community. But selecting a street tree is a responsibility that should not be lightly assumed. By selecting the right tree you can minimize maintenance costs; virtually eliminate damage to curbs, sidewalks, and sewers; do away with the blocking of street lights; and reduce interference with overhead utility installations. In the past, trees have been planted in parking strips with no consideration of their ultimate size or appearance. As a guide to the problem of selecting street trees, consider the following recommendations in addition to the five factors outlined for selecting a tree:

1. If parking strips are four feet to eight feet wide, plant the smaller growing trees, such as redbud or European mountain ash.
2. If parking strips are over eight feet wide, seed to lawn and plant the larger growing trees, such as maples and oaks.

3. Where the sidewalk is next to the curb, plant trees on the inside of the sidewalk. In this case locate the tree a minimum of five feet from the sidewalk edge.

4. Spacing of street trees is of major importance; therefore, do not plant trees closer together than one-half of their total spread.

5. Avoid plantings that will interfere with motorists' vision at intersections and with the effectiveness of street lights. Twenty-five feet is the minimum distance a tree should be planted from the corner of a block.

6. If there are overhead utility lines, be sure to select a tree whose ultimate height will be less than the height of the lowest line.
7. Restrict the planting of wide-spreading trees to wide streets and boulevards. For most residential streets, use trees whose crowns are somewhat compact and dense.

This is "Farm Safety" week. If proper care is not taken and all safety measures not followed, the farm can be a rather dangerous place to live and work. The overall cost of accidents to agriculture last year was over a million dollars. Each farm resident's share of this amount is $40.16 plus 20 days of lost time. To enjoy farm life or even city life, for that matter, practice safety.

The Cook County Extension Council elected officers at its last meeting. The new officers are: Harold Bergman, Palatine, president; William Keuch, Homewood, vice-president; Faustin Zeller, Elgin, secretary. Charles Erickson, Mokena, is the retiring president. The Extension Council helps plan the educational program carried out by the farm advisers in the county.

Two very excellent demonstrations came out of the demonstration contest held recently. Elaine Yunker, Orland Park, received an "A" rating for her demonstration entitled "How to Make a Copper Plaque". The other "A" rating went to Karen Bormet and La-

Verne Siemsen, Tinley Park, for their demonstration on "Getting a Brooder House Ready for Baby Chicks".

Leslie Yunker, Orland Park and Richard Wille, Tinley Park, will attend this camp.

Asks $60,000 In Dram Suit

A $60,000 suit under the Dram Shop Act has been filed against the James McCure, who operates the Three Deuces tavern at New Lenox. The plaintiffs are also residents of New Lenox, Emil and Rosita Tomasek, and their son, Jack W., a minor.

According to the complaint Tomasek was in the tavern in question on Aug. 15, 1959, when a customer, allegedly intoxicated on the wares of the establishment, became actively belligerent and worked the plaintiff over.

Tomasek claims that as a result of his alleged injuries he not only suffered but also lost time from his work. Tomasek asks $20,000. A like sum is also sought by the wife and by the son so the total sought under the suits is $60,000.

Miller Places 2nd And 4th In Boat Races At Lemont

Bob Miller, Mercury dealer of Orland Park, and an enthusiastic boat racer, finished fourth in the two heats of the D Stock Hydrox (40 h.p.) race last Sunday in the Lemont basin.

The course covered a mile and a half and there were four laps to a heat in this event—a total of 12 miles for both heats.

According to Miller those in charge of the race program Sunday were so gratified by the response of the public as well as boat owners that they figure holding four programs next season.

The event at Lemont drew over 50 entries.

Pickle Fanciers Note

Though pickles are generally served today as a relish in company with other foods, in the 18th century they often were served as a main dish, report Bond Pickle Co. home economists.

Browsing Through The Cold Stove League

BY DEAN DALLAS
SEMMLER PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

In Tinley Park, Saturday afternoon was punctuated with a great deal of horn blowing by the adults of the community -- if you please. They were celebrating the return of the victorious Little Leagues, who had captured a sectional crown at Homewood and earned the right to move up another notch and meet the winner of the Lansing-South Holland engagement. They will be playing to-night or to-morrow evening.

According to the desire of officials managing the team of Little League All-Stars the names of boys doing a particularly outstanding job in this game were withheld and the names of the entire squad was published in the Times.

We appreciate the farsightedness of these men. This will help to eliminate much pressure on a young boy. They are in this game for fun, not to be treated like major league idols.

We are happy to note the Little League victory and wish great success to this team and that is just what it is a team of young boys from our town.

Every single one did his part in the defeat of Homewood and every single one deserves any of the necessary plaudits.

You may call any one of the members listed in the article in the paper to get the exact time and place of the game.

Perhaps the horns will blow in Tinley Park before this week is over. It would be the first time for such a move on the party of our Little League.

TO THE FANS OF THIS WEEK-END:

Remember these are our kids. They are not paid professionals, but one of our friends sons out to have some fun and learn more about life in a competitive sport.

Cheer for the kids, hope for them, but don't act like many of our juvenile major league baseball fans and boo or even give the child a hard time for a desperate play that he booted or for some other lapse. Be thankful that our kids are free to grow up and don't add to the burden by childish display against them over a game that will soon be forgotten by you, but perhaps never by that young lad.

In other words, go and support the team. Take the advice of the managers of this team and support the team. Parents of the players remember that your son is human and you too support the team.

Support the team in winning in failure and in every part of the contest. They will give their best and every honest, red-blooded American boy will give it the great try in baseball. Don't ask this youngster to do more.

Yes, I've said it again. Let the kids have some fun. We watch and enjoy if we will support a team and go there to see our kids learn of life in the great American pastime.

Dad -- Leave the ulcers in the doctor's mind and be a father and not a baseball fan on this evening. Mother you might find it well to be that boy's mother and not a rabid baseball fan. Yes.

Will County 4-H'ers Make Camp Plans

Will county 4-H youngsters will attend four camps this year. Beverly Torok, Beverly Riegel, Don Schultz, and Ralph Jackson Jr. are attending Junior Leadership Conference camp this week, July 26 - 30. Gene Klett, who attended leadership camp last year as a delegate, will also attend the camp this year. He was selected as a member of the camp's continuation committee last year. The meeting will be held at 4-H Memorial camp near Monticello.

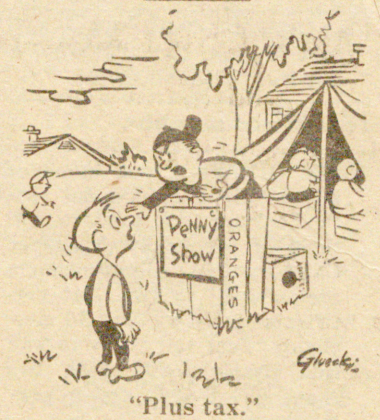

These boys and girls were selected by their outstanding leadership in 4-H activities during the past year.

Robert DeMik of Beecher and Robert Shenk of Wilmington will attend the ninth annual Farm Boys Forestry camp, Aug. 7 - 13 at Lake West Frankfort 4-H camp.

This camp is sponsored by the Illinois Technical Forestry Association. The Will county Soil Conservation district is paying half the camp fee of each of these boys.

Robert Whittier of Joliet will represent Will County at the Wildlife camp, Aug. 1 - 5.

The regular district camp will have 40 Will County 4-H boys and 130 4-H girls. These 4-H'ers will camp from Aug 8 thru 12 at Camp Shaw-waw-nas-see.

Push Plans For Youth Assoc. To Ladies Auxiliary Discuss Forming To Sportsmen's Girls Ball Team

At a recent meeting of the executive board of the New Lenox Sportsmen's club permission was granted to those wishing to form a Ladies Auxiliary.

Thursday, July 21, a group of ladies met in the Lions Den to discuss organization. To become a chartered group there must be a minimum of ten members. The aims of the club are to promote money making projects of which the proceeds would be turned over to the Sportsmen's club to help finance and complete the numerous projects the club is undertaking.

Membership is open to all wives, mothers, daughters and sisters 18 years of age or older whose husband or father is a member of the Sportsmen's club. Applications will be distributed during the week-ends at the club's recreation site for those interested in joining.

It is hoped at the next month's Sportsmen's club meeting, the ladies' group will be started and a charter may be applied for.

The Orland Park Youth association will hold a meeting, Wednesday, August 3, for the purpose of organizing a girls softball team from 9 to 15 years of age.

The meeting will be held at the Elementary school playground on 143rd street at 6:30 p.m.

All parents interested in forming such a team are asked to attend.
